

Software Project Management

Lesson 2 – Strategy Phase
Quiz

Uwe Gühl

Winter 2015 / 2016

1. Strategy phase

What is the objective of the strategy phase?

a) To achieve a project order ☐

b) To define the work breakdown structure (WBS) ☐

c) To execute a kickoff ☐

d) To monitor and control the project ☐

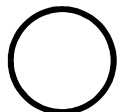

1. Strategy phase

What is the objective of the strategy phase?

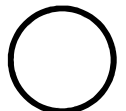

a) To achieve a project order

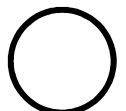

b) To define the work breakdown structure (WBS)

c) To execute a kickoff

d) To monitor and control the project

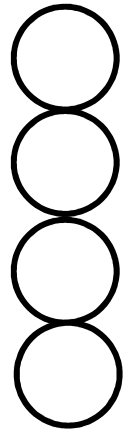

2. Project order

Who should sign the project order?

- a) Principal and Business Analyst
- b) Customer and end user
- c) Project manager and Test manager
- d) Principal and project manager

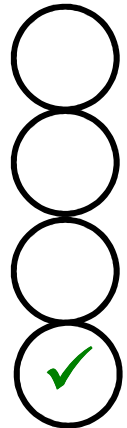

2. Project order

Who should sign the project order?

- a) Principal and Business Analyst
- b) Customer and end user
- c) Project manager and Test manager
- d) Principal and project manager

3. Situation Analysis

When should a situation analysis be done?

- a) Together with the design of the requirement specification document
- b) During project planning
- c) After the project order get signed
- d) At the very beginning of a project

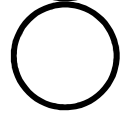

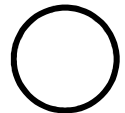

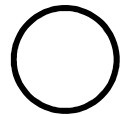

☐
☐
☐
☐

3. Situation Analysis

When should a situation analysis be done?

- a) Together with the design of the requirement specification document
- b) During project planning
- c) After the project order get signed
- d) At the very beginning of a project

4. Specification documents

Which statement is TRUE?

- a) All projects require a requirement specification document. ☐
- b) The technical specification document must be delivered before project planning could start ☐
- c) It's possible that many technical specification documents result out of one requirement specification document ☐
- d) There must be no technical specification document, if there is a requirement specification document. ☐

4. Specification documents

Which statement is TRUE?

- a) All projects require a requirement specification document. ☐
- b) The technical specification document must be delivered before project planning could start ☐
- c) It's possible that many technical specification documents result out of one requirement specification document ☒
- d) There must be no technical specification document, if there is a requirement specification document. ☐

5. Environment analysis

Why do you execute an environment analysis?

a) To clarify the needs of the customer

☐

b) To understand the basic problem of a project

☐

c) To identify stakeholder and to clarify how to involve them

☐

d) To understand the motivation of the principal

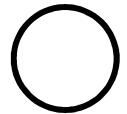

☐

5. Environment analysis

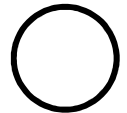

Why do you execute an environment analysis?

a) To clarify the needs of the customer

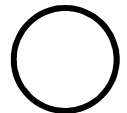

b) To understand the basic problem of a project

c) To identify stakeholder and to clarify how to involve them

d) To understand the motivation of the principal

6. Project goals

Which statement is TRUE concerning project goals?

- a) Non-goals should not be mentioned in the project order ☐
- b) Project goals are required to measure the project results ☐
- c) Project goals should be known only by the principal and the project manager ☐
- d) The prioritization of Non-goals should be considered ☐

6. Project goals

Which statement is TRUE concerning project goals?

- a) Non-goals should not be mentioned in the project order ☐
- b) Project goals are required to measure the project results ☒
- c) Project goals should be known only by the principal and the project manager ☐
- d) The prioritization of Non-goals should be considered ☐